John Staicer, executive director of Historic Madison Inc., works with Jessica Spiess, director of programs, inside HMI's new offices at the Talbott-Hyatt House, located at 301 W. Second St. The move to the historic home fulfills a vision of HMI founder John T. Windle to create an historical campus in the middle of Madison's historic district.

Relocation of HMI offices fulfill dream of founder

BY BOB DEMAREE

When Historic Madison Inc. made plans to restore the Shrewsbury-Windle House a few years ago, that included rehabilitation of the Talbott-Hyatt House for its offices. That rehab took place this past spring and now HMI has finally completed its relocation.

"It's the fulfillment of an idea that John Windle had back in the 1960s. It just took a little while to get there," said John Staicer, executive director of Historic Madison Inc.

The move of HMI's offices to the Talbott-Hyatt House, located at 301 West Second Street, creates an historical campus in the middle of Madison's historic district, a dream of Windle, who founded the organization.

"We're trying to complete this campus," said Staicer, "It ties us directly into Shrewsbury-Windle House, one of the most historic homes in the United States. And where historic Madison started along with the Jeremiah Sullivan house. It ties the whole thing together."

Staicer explained that Historic Madison started out with the Shrewsbury House, located at 301 West First Street, where Windle established the first offices of Historic Madison Inc. A decision was then made to pursue the Sullivan House at 304 West Second Street. "It's my understanding that someone had a desire to tear the Sullivan House down and put in a gas station on the corner," Staicer said. "John Windle gathered a group of business leaders together for Historic Madison to purchase and save the Sullivan House from demolition."

At the other corner stands the Masonic Schofield House,

The Talbott-Hyatt House, located at 301 W. Second St., serves as the new offices of Historic Madison Inc. in downtown Madison.

located at 217 West Second Street, that was the first two-story brick inn and tavern in Madison and the birth place of the Indiana Grand Lodge of Freemasons in 1818.

"What you're looking at perhaps at this corner is one of the most historical important street intersections in the state of Indiana with the original early buildings on it," said Staicer. "Go through Indiana and find an intersection with three buildings of this age, and you're going to have a hard time finding it."

In 1962, the Talbott-Hyatt House was donated to Historic Madison Inc. by Virginia Hyatt-McBride. Staicer said the goal initially was to have two apartments in the building, one upstairs and another downstairs. The second floor apartment was achieved, but the first floor ended up being used for storage.

Still, always in the back of everyone's mind was moving HMI offices there. Staicer, who began working at HMI in 1991, said he remembers the proposal being discussed in board meetings 30 years ago. "Just like anything, it takes time," he said.

Benefits of the move would include having the HMI offices on an historical corner and the offices in a space that is more functional. For about 50 years, HMI's offices were located in the lower level of what had been the Second Presbyterian Church, now known as the John T. Windle Auditoriumw, 101 East Third Street. There was one big office space with limited meeting places.

"It was not a super functional space," said Staicer, noting the space could be renovated to be more functional, and that had been considered if they had stayed there.

Now, at the Talbott-Hyatt House, there are separate offices with Staicer on the first floor, while the second floor houses the offices for David Cart, director of preservation and maintenance, and Jessica Spiess, director of programs. Plus a welcoming entrance with a reception desk.

The Talbott-Hyatt House doesn't come with the same historic significance as the Sullivan House or the Shrewsbury House. The Sullivan House was the home of Jeremiah Sullivan, an Indiana Supreme Court justice and state legislator, who suggested the name "Indianapolis"

Passersby help occupants escape fire

No serious injuries in Christmas Eve blaze

BY THE COURIER STAFF

A Madison family escaped serious injury thanks to quick action by two passersby and fast response by nearby firefighters in a Christmas Eve fire in the 3200 block of North Quail Drive on Madison's hilltop on Fridawy, Dec. 24.

According to Madison Township Fire Chief Robert Black, family members at the home of Elizabeth Phillips were all able to evacuate the residential fire at about 12:48 p.m. after a neighbor who was driving by saw smoke and flames from the front of the home and she and a passenger called 911 and stopped to knock on doors and windows and make sure everybody made it out of the fire.

"They saw the fire and stopped and were beating on windows trying to see if anyone was home," Black said of the rescue. "About the same time one of the residents thought she smelled smoke so she woke up her sister and a 6-year-old child who were in the home."

Black said the occupant who answered the door was the only person injured in the blaze and that mostly likely happened when she opened the door of the home and the fire flashed before she could shut the door and eliminate that oxygen source. The problem was that the other occupants were on the back side of the house nearest to a door the family rarely uses. That's where one of the neighbors who was passing by came to the rescue by helping to get the door open and everyone to safety.

"He helped the one adult female get out the rear door and she stepped inside with the thick smoke billowing and got the child out to safety through the garage door," Black said.

All of that took place in a matter of minutes because the first firefighters arrived at the scene about 3½ minutes after the initial call out thanks to the prompt reaction of firefighters who live near the station and Madison Township's close proximity to Quail Drive. However, firefighters still had to play catch-up on fighting a blaze that was well involved.

"I got there in five minutes and when I was still four miles away I could see the black smoke coming from the area," Black, who lives further west on the hilltop said.

Northern Indian RV industry sets production mark

ELKHART — The boom in U.S. recreational vehicle sales has resulted in the highest-ever annual production mark for the industry that's centered in northern Indiana.

Figures compiled by the RV Industry Association show that factories shipped nearly 560,000 units this year by the end of November, which already topped the previous annual record. Production was on pace to complete more than 600,000 RVs during 2021.

Factories shipped about 49,000 units in November, a record number for the month and a 15% jump from November 2020.

"Demand for RVs remains incredibly strong, driving RV manufacturers and suppliers to continue to build a record number of RVs month after month for the past 13 months," RV association President Craig Kirby said.

Towable RVs accounted for nearly 44,000 of November's wholesale shipments, along with about 5,000 motorhomes.

Indiana factories have produced about 80% of U.S. RV units in recent years, according to the association. Several thousand people work at dozens of RV manufacturing and supply factories in and around Elkhart County.

New I-69 section's southbound lanes open

MARTINSVILLE — A new section of the Interstate 69 extension project in central Indiana has fully opened for traffic.

Crews opened up the highway's southbound lanes through Martinsville on Thursday, three days after traffic was allowed on the northbound lanes, the Indiana Department of Transportation said.

Drivers can now take the main route between Bloomington and Indianapolis that had been cut off since January as a 5-mile stretch of what was Indiana 37 through Martinsville was shut down to upgrade the roadway and build interchanges.

Some construction work such as final paving, installation of signs and completion of drainage fixtures will continue into the new year, highway officials said.

The I-69 project's focus now turns to upgrading the Indiana 37 corridor between Martinsville and I-465 on the southwest side of Indianapolis. No full closures are planned on that section as construction is expected to continue into 2024.

The I-69 extension has been under construction through southwestern Indiana since 2008 and currently runs from Evansville to Martinsville.

Secretary of State leaves GOP position

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana's top state elections official has stepped down from her position as the second-ranking officer in the state Republican Party.

Secretary of State Holli Sullivan had been the Indiana GOP's vice chair since 2019. She was reelected to that party position in March, just days after Republican Gov. Eric Holcomb appointed her to replace retiring Secretary of State Connie Lawson.

The secretary of state's office oversees election issues statewide, along with registering businesses and regulating the securities industry.

Sullivan was in her seventh year as a state representative from Evansville when Holcomb appointed her to complete the secretary of state term that runs through the end of 2022.

Sullivan's office says she decided in August to step down from the Republican position in order "to focus her attention on the duties of her new office."

Sullivan is running for a full four-year term in the 2022 election but faces at least two challengers for the Republican nomination, which will be decided during the GOP state convention next summer.

Erin Lucas of South Bend, a former staffer to Republican U.S. Rep. Larry Bucshon, was elected earlier this month by the Indiana Republican State Committee to replace Sullivan as the state party vice chair.

Corncobs, straw still burning in Windfall

WINDFALL — A fire amid corncobs and straw bales has been burning for more than a week in a small Indiana town, producing smoke that is annoying residents.

"It's been a long time," said Kevin Bryant, chief of the Wildcat Township Volunteer Fire Department. "A lot of water and a lot of trucks and a lot of resources have been used on it, and it's still burning now."

The fire is in Windfall in Tipton County, 50 miles north of Indianapolis.

The fire started naturally from decomposition inside the corncob pile, Bryant told the Kokomo Tribune.

He estimated the pile is up to 30 feet high, with roughly 100 straw bales placed around it.

A fan was brought in Thursday to make the fire hotter and reduce the irritating smoke.

Lindsey Ogden of the county health department said some residents have left to escape the smoke but many are sticking around.

"This is very sad and very unfortunate for those residents," Ogden said.

$1M donation to help expand woodland

TRAFALGAR — A conservation group plans to use a $1 million donation to help reforestation work and add property to a 700-acre woodland it protects in central Indiana.

The Central Indiana Land Trust said the donation from Leonard and Kathryn Betley and their family will also establish an endowment for the Hills of Gold Conservation Area in Johnson County.

The organization is renaming a nature preserve near Trafalgar about 25 miles south of Indianapolis as Betley Woods at Glacier's End.

The nature preserve in the Hills of Gold Conservation Area is where glaciers stopped their southward march thousands of years ago, resulting in a mix of both glaciated and unglaciated land that became one of the state's most biodiverse woodlands and a haven for rare species of birds and bats, the organization said.

Land Trust executive director Cliff Chapman said the donation helps "ensure that Indiana's natural heritage remains accessible for generations into the future."

Leonard Betley is a retired managing partner of the law firm Ice Miller, as well as the retired CEO of The Richard M. Fairbanks Foundation. Katie Betley has spent 50 years serving as a leader on boards of organizations including Newfields, the Indianapolis Zoo, and the Indiana chapter of The Nature Conservancy.

Black said one of the adult occupants was transported to King's Daughters' Hospital to be checked for possible smoke inhalation but everyone seemed to have escaped serious injury.

Madison Township was assisted at the scene by Rykers Ridge Fire Company, KDH EMS and the Salvation Army with water for the firefighters and to see if they could help the residents. The blaze is under investigation by Madison Township Fire Company and the Indiana State Fire Marshal's Office was contacted and responded to help with the investigation.

"Madison Township and Rykers Ridge Fire Companies would like to thank all responding agencies and the neighbors that stopped to save a life on Christmas Eve," Black said.

for the state capitol. The Shrewsbury House was built by Madison architect Francis Costigan for Captain Charles Shrewsbury, who earned his fortune as a commission merchant and meat packer, and served as mayor of Madison from 1870 to 1872.

The Talbott-Hyatt House, constructed in 1815, was the home of Richard Talbott, the first county clerk, and without a functioning Courthouse may have included the county clerk's office, although Staicer said that has not been verified.

The Hyatts were the last family to live in the building until it was donated to HMI in 1962. The family's ownership began in 1895 when it was purchased by Charles R. Johnson, a prominent Madison businessman who was instrumental in establishing the Madison Street Railway. One of Johnson's daughters, Margaret, became heir to the property and in 1932 assumed ownership with her husband, Benjamin Hyatt. They lived in the house until their deaths.

Once acquired by HMI, the upstairs was rented as an apartment and the downstairs was used as storage. Now the decision to develop the Talbott-Hyatt House for the HMI offices has provided an opportunity to display historic items from different eras.

"Now, we have a collection of antiques that we can use, and also honor the history and heritage of the house," Staicer said. "It's not a museum, per se, but it's a place where these things can be kept, enjoyed and decorate the home. It's kind of cool to be able to do that. The goal is to do a sensitive representation to create a modern, usage office space that has an historic charm and appeal to it."

HMI still owns the former Second Presbyterian Church, which features the church's original 1867 Johnson tracker organ that includes all of its original parts, components, fixtures, accessories and wooden pipes. There have been organ concerts there along with other concerts, plays, public programming and occasional weddings.

"I don't know what the future will be" of that building, said Staicer. "It's kind of up in the air," but whatever it will be, it's important the building maintain it's historic nature "because it is a very significant historic structure, not only in Madison but in the state."

Funding for rehabilitation of the Talbott-Hyatt House was included in the capital campaign for the Shrewsbury House that included funds raised from 100 donors throughout the United States. "It is the generosity of our donors that has made this possible," Staicer said. "The reason we're able to do that is Historic Madison has a track record. We've been around for a lot of years" and people have appreciated the efforts to preserve Madison's architecture. "The donors and our board of directors have really made this happen."

Now, not only is the Shrewsbury House fully restored, but the HMI offices are finally at the Talbott-Hyatt House. Work continues to complete restoration, but Staicer is glad to have the offices there. "It's a much brighter, cheerier welcoming space not only for staff but for volunteers and donors, and any visitors we have," he said. "It's much more functional, usable, friendlier and really portrays more the essence of the organization."

"This is a beautiful building we sit in," Staicer said, looking at what has been accomplished.

Wisdom from 'Walden'

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Readers: I hope you enjoy some quotes below from one of my favorite poets, Henry David Thoreau. May he inspire you to live your lives to the fullest, spend time with nature, seek truth and always choose kindness and love. Follow you dreams; live deliberately, wild and free.

"I learned this, at least, by my experiment: that if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours."

"Rather than love, than money, than fame, give me truth."

"I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately, to front only the essential facts of life, and see if I could not learn what it had to teach, and not, when I came to die, discover that I had not lived. I did not wish to live what was not life, living is so dear; nor did I wish to practise resignation, unless it was quite necessary. I wanted to live deep and suck out all the marrow of life, to live so sturdily and Spartan-like as to put to rout all that was not life, to cut a broad swath and shave close, to drive life into a corner, and reduce it to its lowest terms."

"The question is not what you look at, but what you see."

"Dreams are the touchstones of our characters."

"The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation. What is called resignation is confirmed desperation. From the desperate city you go into the desperate country, and have to console yourself with the bravery of minks and muskrats. A stereotyped but unconscious despair is concealed even under what are called the games and amusements of mankind. There is no play in them, for this comes after work. But it is a characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things."

"You must live in the present, launch yourself on every wave, find your eternity in each moment. Fools stand on their island of opportunities and look toward another land. There is no other land; there is no other life but this."

"If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put the foundations under them."

"Books are the treasured wealth of the world and the fit inheritance of generations and nations."

"Do not be too moral. You may cheat yourself out of much life so. Aim above morality. Be not simply good, be good for something."

"All good things are wild and free."

"If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away."

"I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately."

"Our life is frittered away by detail. Simplicity, simplicity, simplicity."

"We need the tonic of wildness ... At the same time that we are earnest to explore and learn all things, we require that all things be mysterious and unexplorable, that land and sea be infinitely wild, unsurveyed and unfathomed by us because unfathomable. We can never have enough of Nature."

"Read the best books first, or you may not have a chance to read them at all."

"Live in each season as it passes; breathe the air, drink the drink, taste the fruit, and resign yourself to the influence of the earth."

"I learned this, at least, by my experiment; that if one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours."

Somatic therapy could help with trauma

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I'm a 45-year-old-male and have had many traumatic events in my past, including abuses too bad to name. My problem is, as I was growing up, I was so mistreated that I never learned how to feel. I had to suppress everything I was feeling and disconnect from my emotions and body to survive.

Now that I'm grown and have been seeking mental help for almost 17 years, I still can't connect with anything inside. This has led to relationship failures, lost jobs and more. I live every day on a flat plain of numbness, and yet I believe that I am worthless and undeserving of anything I receive from anyone. That includes kindness, love, help or gifts.

I have been through five therapists and as many psychiatrists. No one has been able to diagnose or help in any way. Each and every one of them has come up empty-handed and told me that I should seek help from "someone better" without giving referrals or suggestions as to whom I should be talking to.

As a result, I have begun to distrust the world of psychological treatment.

All I want is to live a "normal" life and not run everybody out of it. — Numb and Lost

Dear Numb and Lost: Thank you for writing to me. First off, no one has a "normal" life. Everyone has stuff. But what you want is to be out of pain. I am sorry that you had to endure all sorts of abuse. No person or child should ever have to. The question is, how do you heal from that?

Congratulations on trying to find help. It looks like the five therapists you saw were probably not trained in trauma. You might try and find a somatic therapist. Somatic therapy is a type of therapy that helps treat post-traumatic stress by releasing bodily sensations that come up in everyday life. The therapist works from the inside out, starting with your body instead of just talking and reliving the traumas over and over again. I would recommend reading Dr. Peter Levine's book, "Waking the Tiger." Another good book for trauma is "The Body Keeps the Score" by Bessel van der Kolk. Both could be great resources on your journey toward feeling better. It's a cinch by the inch and hard by the yard.

Dear Annie: What an amazing soul you are, and your duty to do for others before yourself speaks loudly of your ability to be truly unselfish. Thank you for the experiences and advice you have shared with the world. It surely is a beautiful light to help guide those who struggle through the dark paths. — Grateful

Dear Grateful: Thank you for the kind words. It is an honor that so many readers share their stories each week.

Southwestern hoping to learn from JCIT loss

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Southwestern closed out the 2021 Jefferson County Invitational Tournament with more losses than wins, but all things considered, it wasn't that bad of a two-day tourney for the Rebels.

A day after knocking off two-time defending Class 3A state champion Silver Creek and falling to Jay County in a close battle, Southwestern lost 85-63 to powerful Warren Central (Ky.) in the third-place game on Thursday afternoon at Madison.

Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum knew what his Rebels were facing when they squared off against the athletic Dragons and was happy to see his team compete.

"They're extremely athletic, they can shoot it. They're longer and they're taller. Give them credit. They're beating teams on average by 27 for a reason," Nussbaum said. "We might not face a team of this level in the tournament, but if we face a team that plays pressure like that, hopefully we'll know how to attack it."

A night after watching Warren Central hammer Madison by 53 points, Southwestern fared better but the end result was the same. Like Madison, the Rebels simply could not contain Warren's combination of size and speed and after staying close for eight minutes, Southwestern was brushed aside by a 31-point outburst in the second quarter that saw Warren take a 46-23 halftime lead.

With the outcome no longer in doubt, Nussbaum wanted his team to work on getting better over the final 16 minutes.

The Rebels spent the final two quarters in attack mode on offense and had success, scoring 25 points in the fourth quarter to end the game on a high note.

Zach Cole capped off a spectacular tournament for the Rebels by scoring 19 points, most coming in the paint against players six inches taller. Jamison Lewis joined Cole on the all-tournament team with 12 points and newcomer Peyton Gwin, a transfer from Austin who was ruled eligible by the IHSAA on Wednesday afternoon, scored 11 points.

Jaiden Lawrence had 26 points and 11 rebounds to lead Warren, which actually shot worse overall from the floor than Southwestern, 45% (34-for-75) to 46% (25-for-55).

But the Dragons hit nine more shots from the field, outrebounded the Rebels 48-26 and outscored Southwestern 27-15 from the 3-point line.

Omari Glover scored 16 points and Kade Unseld had 13 to lead Warren Central.

Southwestern finished fourth in the tournament a year after winning the JCIT but Nussbaum had no complaints. While there were some rumbles about allowing powerhouses like Warren Central and Tech into the field, Nussbaum likes seeing those type of teams in action.

"You always want to win. You always want to win the tournament. You always want to win every game. But my mindset on these is it helps you prepare for the regional where you have to play two games in one day," Nussbaum said. "Hopefully we can get to another regional and it helps you to just see different styles and different types of teams. And I'm hoping we can just take what we saw this week and just get better from it next week."

Southwestern, now 6-3 on the season, will take the rest of the week off and come back on Tuesday, Jan. 4 with a huge game when the Rebels host sectional foe Providence.

Cubs respond to benchings with pair of JCIT victories

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Unhappy with his team's play in a 53-point loss to Warren Central (Ky.) on Wednesday, Madison head coach Adam Stotts sent a message to his players about effort by benching two starters on Thursday.

The message was received loud and clear.

Madison responded to their coach's challenge by overcoming a 14-point second-quarter deficit to beat Switzerland County 71-64, then played arguably their best game of the season to knock off Scottsburg 77-75 in double overtime on the final day of the Jefferson County Invitational Tournament at home on Thursday.

The Cubs may have ended up fifth in the eight-team field but Stotts was thrilled at the way his team responded from one of the worst losses in program history.

"In the wise words of Bobby Knight: bench meets butt, butt reaches brain and brain says to come out and play hard," Stotts said. "I didn't think that would work. But we benched two guys and then one of them plays hard in the first game and then both showed up the second game. We finally got our groove a little bit."

For much of the first half of the first game, it was Switzerland County in a groove. The Pacers, trying to shrug off their own 50-point loss to Indianapolis Tech the night before, rocked the Cubs with a 24-point first quarter and led by 14 (29-15) early in the second quarter before Madison came roaring back. Henry Grote came off the bench to help kick-start a strong close to the quarter and the Cubs trailed only 39-38 at the break.

Madison's Kaden Oliver (1) dishes off to teammate Jackson Lynch (34) for the game-tying basket at the end of regulation in the Cubs' double-overtime win over Scottsburg in the JCIT on Thursday.

Madison (4-6) continued that momentum into the third quarter, outscoring Switzerland 24-14 to take a nine-point lead into the fourth and then held on for the win down the stretch.

Kaden Oliver scored 29 points and had seven rebounds while Grote scored 13 and Jackson Lynch had 11 for the Cubs. Freshman sensation Cam Craig scored 29 points to lead Switzerland with Ben Hicks and Bryce Wrightsman adding nine points each.

Madison girls knock off top-ranked Winchester en route to tourney title

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison girls basketball knocked off the top-ranked team in Class 2A then gutted out a win over the tournament hosts to win the Connersville Holiday Invitational on Thursday.

Madison defeated No. 1 Winchester 72-61 in the opening game then overcame a 10-point fourth-quarter deficit to deny Connersville 40-37 in the championship game to cap a special day for the Cubs.

"The girls were just dead tired at the start of the fourth quarter. I told them in the huddle that I knew they were tired, but now is the time to step up," Madison coach Sonja Bowyer said. "And they did. I couldn't be more proud of these girls."

Madison led Winchester at nearly every quarter break and played its best game of the season. Cam Cahall had a double-double of 17 points and 10 rebounds to lead the Cubs while Casey Dyer had 17 points and eight rebounds. Cadence Traylor had 16 points, five rebounds and five steals, while Taylor Lynch had 13 points, three rebounds and five assists.

Lynch led the Cubs in scoring with 18 points and also had five assists in the win over Connersville. Mary Johnson had eight

Exhausted Pacers close JCIT with loss to Silver Creek

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Switzerland County drew the short stick and the exhausted Pacers had little fight left in a 96-46 loss to Silver Creek to close out the seventh-place game of the Jefferson County Invitational Tournament at Madison on Thursday.

The Pacers had just battled Madison down to the wire, falling 71-64 in Thursday's consolation semifinals.

Thanks to the bracket and time schedule, Switzerland was forced to play a second-straight game less than 20 minutes after the loss to Madison had concluded.

The Pacers stayed in the lockerroom until five minutes were left in the warm-up period in order to get extra rest, but it did little good.

After a brief burst of adrenaline saw the game tied 11-11 early, Creek took control with an 18-3 closing run to lead 29-14 after the first quarter.

It didn't get any better for the Swiss from there The Pacers trailed 57-28 at halftime and 84-39 after three quarters before Creek closed out the 51-point win.

Canaan Johnson scored 11 points and Bryce Wrightsman had 10 to lead the Pacers.

Brandon Northern and Zac Stricker each scored 22 points for Silver Creek (4-5) while Walker Hoffman had 17 points and Cameron Wheeler scored 13.

Switzerland, now 4-5 on the season, finished eighth in the eight-team field.

The Pacers will have the next week and a half off before opening the Rivertown Classic at South Dearborn against the tourney hosts on Wednesday, Jan. 6.

Scottsburg 70, Silver Creek 65 — Scottsburg outscored Silver Creek 16-11 in the fourth quarter to pull away for the victory over their Mid-Southern Conference rivals in the consolation semifinals on Thursday morning.

Hayden Cutter scored 26 points and Colby Hall had 14 to lead Scottsburg (7-2).

Brandon Northern scored 40 points to lead Creek and in the process eclipsed the 1,000-point mark in career scoring.

Indianapolis Tech 59, Jay County 31 (championship) — Indianapolis Tech capped off an impressive JCIT by defeating Jay County 59-31 in the championship game on Thursday night.

RaSheed Jones and Dayveon Turner each scored 15 points to lead Tech (8-2) while Tylan Harris had 12 points and Reggie Bass scored 10 points and had seven rebounds, seven assists and five steals.

Jay County is now 7-2 on the season.

Silver Creek's Zac Stricker (30) catches a pass over Switzerland County's Aiden Griffith during the JCIT seventh-place game on Thursday.

Banged-up Colts beat Cardinals on Christmas night

BY DAVID BRANDT
ASSOCIATED PRESS

GLENDALE, Ariz. — The Indianapolis Colts have beaten some teams with Jonathan Taylor's legs, some with Carson Wentz's arm and a few with stellar defense. They added another formula for a victory Saturday night: sheer grit.

"We've got a ton of ways to beat you," receiver T.Y. Hilton said. "You just pick the way you want to get beat."

Wentz threw two touchdown passes, Taylor ran for 108 yards and the banged-up Colts continued their late-season surge with a hard-earned 22-16 win over the fading Arizona Cardinals on Saturday night.

The Colts (9-6) have won three straight and six of seven. They got the road win on Christmas night despite missing 2020 All-Pro linebacker Darius Leonard — who was put on the reserve/COVID-19 list earlier Saturday — and four starting offensive linemen.

"This is one of the best team wins I've ever been a part of, considering everything," Colts coach Frank Reich said. "I'm sure there are some other good ones, but this is up there."

Wentz made the game's biggest play midway through the fourth quarter, when he bounced around in the pocket for a few seconds before hitting Dezmon Patmon for a 14-yard touchdown on a perfectly placed ball in the back of the end zone. That gave the Colts a 22-13 lead.

The Cardinals (10-5) failed to clinch a playoff spot for a third straight week and are 3-5 since starting the season 7-0. Kyler Murray threw for 245 yards and a touchdown while also running for 74 yards.

Arizona's Matt Prater missed two field goals, including a potential go-ahead try early in the fourth quarter, and an extra point.

"We continue to find ways to lose, critical situations, penalties, things of that nature," Cardinals coach Kliff Kingsbury said. "We've got to get it turned around somewhere."

The Cardinals grabbed a 13-12 lead early in the third quarter when Murray hit Antoine Wesley for a 24-yard touchdown, which was the first of Wesley's NFL career.

Suddenly, the onus was on the Colts' patchwork offense to produce. That wasn't easy for a unit that came into the game missing three starting offensive lineman. By the end of the first half, left tackle Eric Fisher and tight end Jack Doyle were also on the sideline with injuries.

The Colts managed to cobble together a drive late in the third quarter capped by a 37-yard field goal for a 15-13 lead. Indianapolis caught a break a few minutes later in the fourth quarter when Prater's 41-yard field goal bounced off the right upright.

That set up a seven-play, 69-yard Indianapolis drive that ended with Wentz — who completed 18 of 28 passes for 225 yards — connecting with Patmon.

"I saw him at the last second, screaming at the back of the end zone," Wentz said. "I gave him a chance and he made a great play."

The Colts got off to a great start when Taylor broke free for a 43-yard run on the team's first offensive play.

The 226-pound back sliced through the middle of the line before bouncing to the outside and rumbling down the right sideline. Five plays later, Wentz had plenty of time to find T.Y. Hilton for a 1-yard touchdown and a 7-0 lead.

Taylor came into the game as the NFL's leading rusher by a wide margin with 1,518 yards on the ground. That's more than 400 yards ahead of Cincinnati's Joe Mixon, who sits at No. 2.

The Cardinals bounced back quickly after the Colts scored. Murray faked a handoff to Jonathan Ward, made a nice cut and ran 57 yards before being knocked down at the Indy 2.

Two plays later, Chase Edmonds burst through the line for a 2-yard touchdown. Prater missed the extra point and the Colts kept a 7-6 lead.

points while Cahall scored five and Traylor had four.

Madison, now winners of five straight, improves to 9-5 on the season. The Cubs have the rest of the week off before traveling to Brownstown on Tuesday, Jan. 4.

CARROLL GIRLS BEAT PINEVILLE

Carroll County girls basketball wrapped up play in the Arby's/KFC Classic at McCreary Central with a 53-40 win over Pineville on Thursday.

The Panthers finished 2-2 in the four-day tournament, falling 48-45 to Wayne County on Wednesday afternoon.

Carroll, now 4-7 on the season, returns to action on Tuesday, Jan. 4 when the Panthers square off against Eminence in the opening round of the All "A" Classic Eighth Region Tournament at Eminence.

CARROLL BOYS FALL TO BROSSART

Carroll County boys basketball suffered a 52-29 loss to Bishop Brossart in the final game of the Swauger Holiday Classic at Bellevue on Thursday.

The Panthers, now 0-11 on the season, open play in the Fuller Ford Phillip Wood Classic at Pendleton County today when they take on Thomas Nelson.

But it was the second game of the day, the fourth-place game with rival Scottsburg, where Madison truly shined. Madison played its most complete game of the season in beating the Warriors, who came into the tournament with just one loss on the season.

Oliver scored a career-high 35 points but it was the two points he did not score that were the biggest of the game. With Madison trailing 58-56 with just eight seconds left in regulation,

Oliver drove into the lane and sucked in three Scottsburg defenders. Rather than force up a shot, Oliver deftly passed to a wide-open Lynch on the baseline, who laid in the uncontested shot to force overtime.

"When Kaden ran it, they kind of switched something up on him and he did a really good job of not trying to force something. That's something our guys are starting to do better," Stotts said. "A lot of (Oliver's) buckets are coming off other guys helping and now he can kind of get his own shot. For me, I think it was big that we had a lot of guys step up and take the pressure off."

After a low-scoring first overtime, Madison jumped out to a five-point lead in the second extra period when Oliver nailed a 3-pointer and Jackson Falconberry scored in the lane.

A free throw by Colin Yancey then staked the Cubs to a 72-66 lead with 44 seconds to go.

But Scottsburg (7-3) wasn't ready to go away. Kody Clancy hit a basket then converted a three-point play to close the margin to 72-71 with 26 seconds to go.

Henry Grote answered with two free throws by Madison and, after a Scottsburg miss, Grote connected on two more freebies to put the Cubs ahead 76-71 with 14 seconds left.

Former Madison Cub Jack Miller hit two free throws on the other end for Scottsburg to close the gap to three points but a final free throw by Grote with seconds left iced the win.

Grote had his best game in a Madison uniform, scoring 25 points on 7-of-13 shooting, including 5-of-10 from 3-point range.

He was also 6-of-9 from the free-throw line. Falconberry added 10 points for the Cubs.

Hayden Cutter led Scottsburg with 20 points while Miller had 17 and Clancy contributed 15.

The two teams will not have to wait long for a rematch. Madison's next game will be on Friday, Jan. 7, when the Cubs travel to Scottsburg.

DES # 1801684
LEGAL NOTICE OF PLANNED IMPROVEMENT
The Indiana Department of Transportation (INDOT) is developing plans for a slide correction project on State Road (SR) 7, from 0.51 mile to 0.77 mile north of SR 56. The project is located in the City of Madison, Madison Township, Jefferson County.
The portion of SR 7 involved in this project lies between the lower elevation of downtown Madison, Indiana and the higher elevation north of Madison. The average hill grade in this section of the road is 7.4%. This section of SR 7 is built into the side of a hill, with cut slopes present on the east side of the roadway and steep drop-offs along the west side of the roadway. The steepness of the hill in this location makes this area susceptible to erosion, and three areas along this stretch of SR 7 have been identified as having sliding land and associated damage to the western edge of the roadway. One culvert at the northern terminus of the project has extensive damage to the west (outlet) side of the structure. The west headwall has been repaired by boards and the wingwall in the southwest corner of the structure is separating from the slope. The purpose of the project is to provide a stable roadway that will perpetuate safe vehicular traffic.
The preferred alternative is to use soil nails to stabilize the west (downslope) side of the roadway. A 1,400-foot-long soil nail wall will be placed along the entire length of the project limits, beginning at the historic stone retaining wall to the south and ending at the culvert located at the north terminus of the project. The soil nail wall will begin approximately 8 feet from the edge of the pavement and will extend downslope between approximately 10 and 27 feet. The existing wingwall located in the southwest corner of the culvert will be removed and replaced with the soil nail wall. The damaged headwall will be reconstructed. A concrete curb and gutter will be constructed at the top of the soil nail wall to help redirect water from draining behind the wall and to increase the stability of the wall. On the east side of SR 7, an existing concrete lined ditch will be replaced with a uniform riprap lined ditch. Five existing 24-inch diameter drainage structures will be replaced; the existing inlets will be cleaned and reset, and new riprap lined ditches will be placed at the outlet of each structure. Mulched seeding will be placed at the bottom of the downslope to help prevent erosion. SR 7 will be resurfaced, and the existing guardrail will be replaced through the entire alignment.
The project requires approximately 0.96 acre of new permanent right-of-way (ROW) along SR 7. No temporary ROW will be required to complete the project. No relocations of residents or businesses will be required for this project.
The maintenance of traffic is anticipated to be a closure of SR 7 with a detour. Traffic will be redirected along a detour route utilizing SR 56, US 421, and SR 62. The detour route length is approximately 7.3 miles and will require an additional 4.3 miles of travel. Signage will notify motorists of the road closure and detour route. No residences or businesses are located in the project area.
School corporations, local officials, and emergency services will be notified of closures prior to construction. Construction will occur between April and November 2023.
The project cost is estimated at $3,067,796 with federal and state funds anticipated to be used. The Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) and INDOT have agreed this project falls within the guidelines of a Categorical Exclusion (CE) Level 2 environmental document. One stream is present within the project area. UNT to Crooked Creek flows east to west through the culvert located at the north terminus of the project area. UNT to Crooked Creek drains water from the uphill area on the east side of SR 7. No streambed is present on the west side of SR 7, and water exiting the structure drops straight down to the bottom of the valley where the stream continues to drain to Crooked Creek. While repairs will be made to the headwall and wingwall at the outlet of the structure carrying UNT to Crooked Creek under SR 7, no work will occur in the stream. No impacts to UNT to Crooked Creek are expected, and no permits for work in a waterway are required for this project. A total of 0.82 acre of trees on the west side of the roadway will be removed in order to complete this project.
Preliminary design plans along with the CE document are available for review at the following locations:
- INDOT Seymour District Website, www.seymour.indot.in.gov
- INDOT Seymour District Office, 185 Agrico Lane, Seymour, IN 47274

Bulls win 3rd straight game, defeat Pacers 113-105

BY JOHN JACKSON
ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — Zach LaVine scored 32 points in his return from the NBA's health and safety protocols, DeMar DeRozan added 24 points and the Chicago Bulls beat the Indiana Pacers 113-105 on Sunday night.

Nikola Vucevic had 16 points and 15 rebounds as the Bulls (20-10) won their third straight.

Caris LeVert scored 27 points and Domantas Sabonis had 14 points and 16 rebounds after missing a game with a right calf injury as the Pacers dropped their third straight game.

Chicago had a comfortable lead throughout most of the game before Indiana pulled within 108-100 on a 3-pointer by LeVert with 3:19 to play. LaVine answered with a 20-footer and, after a miss by the Pacers, added another basket to essentially put the game away.

It was LaVine's first game since Dec. 11. However, he missed just two games because the Bulls had three games postponed during his absence.

He also missed time last season because of COVID-19.

"I'm tired of getting COVID," LaVine said. "I feel like I just had it. ... But that's the world we're living in right now. We've got to play with it. Everybody in the league and the world is dealing with it right now, so I'm not doing a poor-me mentality."

Rookie Ayo Dosunmu, who also returned from the health and safety protocols, came off the bench to score six points in 24 minutes.

Chicago was without starter Lonzo Ball and reserves Alfonzo McKinnie and Tony Bradley, who entered health and safety protocols on Sunday. Ball was the only player to appear in all 29 games before Sunday.

The Bulls were also without coach Billy Donovan, who entered the protocols on Friday. Assistant Chris Fleming filled in.

The Pacers were without leading scorer Malcolm Brogdon (Achilles) and Jeremy Lamb (wrist).

Indiana won 109-77 in the first meeting between the teams, on Nov. 22 at the United Center.

Chicago got off to a hot shooting start in the opening periods and led 63-48 at the half. The Bulls were 26 for 41 from the field (63.4%), including 6 for 12 on 3-pointers.

"I thought we had a poor first half and a very good second half," Indiana coach Rick Carlisle said. "That's not gonna cut it against a team like Chicago with two stars. They got rolling and we just didn't do enough in the first half to keep them from getting going.

"I like our third quarter and I thought we did a lot of good things in the second half, but we're gonna have to put 48 minutes together instead of 24."

Indiana turned up the defensive pressure at the start of the second half and pulled within 83-75 with just under two minutes remaining in the third quarter.

Coby White hit a pair of free throws and DeRozan added a 14-footer to build the lead back to 87-75, but the Pacers scored the final four points of the quarter to make it 87-79 entering the fourth.

Tyler Cook opened the scoring in the final quarter with a dunk and DeRozan added a pair of free throws on the next possession to stretch the lead to 91-79.

A short time later, DeRozan hit back-to-back mid-range jumpers to make it 95-81 with nine minutes to go.

The Bulls found a way to win, just as they have throughout the virus outbreak.
